Falling is not failing. Failing is remaining where you actually fell.”
Socrates, Greek philosopher

INTERVIEW:
Can you introduce yourselves?
We are Kévin, Romain, Enzo and Bryan and we are 12 years old. We are studying in year 7 in the SEGPA section of collège Fontenelle in Rouen.

Why are you here as young supporters?
We are here to attend the Sweden-Poland boys’ match with two classes from our school. It was our PE teacher’s idea. We always do school visits with other classes to get to know each other.

What do you think about the match?
It’s a great game! The score is very tight between Sweden and Poland, so it’s a very interesting match! But we support Poland (and so does the teacher!) because the players are really good. And the goal-keeper is really strong!

Do you actually play handball?
Bryan: Yes, I’ve been playing for 4 years and this game makes me feel like playing on the court! Enzo and Kévin: No, we don’t. But now we feel like trying handball. Romain: No, I practise canoeing.

How do you feel about attending this Handball World Schools Championship?
It’s great! It’s the first time for us! It’s amazing!

FEMALE/MALE STEREOTYPES

Apparently, girls are softer defenders than boys.

Girls, do you agree with that?

About yesterday’s fact or fiction... Before becoming handball, the sport was called handbold in Denmark.
